

spent two weeks in our nation's

Read all about their experience

here

A group of PUC students traveled abroad

Read all about their experience about Israel here.

's racial self-
and voting

Through the Patten honors College I had the chance to spend a semester abroad in Japan during Fall 2019. Not only was it an amazing academic and racial experience, but I was able to about another culture so different than our western one.

During my time in Japan, I was able to meet and talk to people from all over the world. I was able to learn about their cultures and how they live. I was able to see how different people think and feel about things. I was able to see how different people live and work. I was able to see how different people are and how they are the same.

come up to people and start talking with them. I was able to have such good conversations, with my very poor Japanese skills. I was able to see how people believe things and what they believe. I was able to see the experience, being able to see the huge obstacles of culture and language.

During my time in Japan, I was able to see how different people are and how they are the same. I was able to see how different people think and feel about things. I was able to see how different people live and work. I was able to see how different people are and how they are the same.

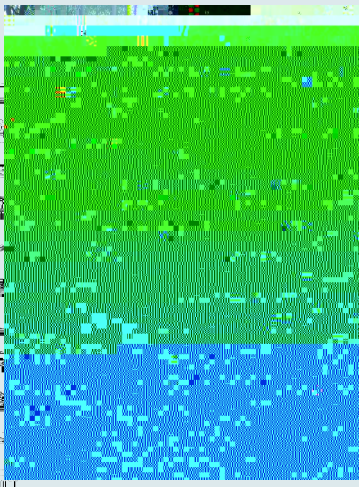

abroad but have become more outgoing and loud.

During my time in Japan, I was able to see how different people are and how they are the same. I was able to see how different people think and feel about things. I was able to see how different people live and work. I was able to see how different people are and how they are the same.

During my time in Japan, I was able to see how different people are and how they are the same. I was able to see how different people think and feel about things. I was able to see how different people live and work. I was able to see how different people are and how they are the same.

change my opinion on marriage. Coming from France, I was able to see how different people are and how they are the same. I was able to see how different people think and feel about things. I was able to see how different people live and work. I was able to see how different people are and how they are the same.

with procedure to try to quickly hair, the color was could instantly go from as non-Asian ethnicity to as I could to fit in. Although I did not dye my hair or anything like this. I started to change and have the same person, having in almost all circumstances, being more be over it, etc. I started about my experience with Wendy, who was very helpful

about my experience with
Wendy, who was very helpful myself, thinking I was something else. I was because it was one of the "and" of the I did not want to be the foreigner, but instead really immerse myself in the culture. I was in the "and"

Japan has been an amazing experience and one I will it is still hard to count them all. People are right about jeunesse

enough to have them come to be a different person, then I was two years ago and even six months ago I really recommend anyone to go anywhere far, far away how much they have about themselves, their identity and different societal values.

BY ASIA RICHARDS

During the spring 2016 semester with the help of Dr. of social self-identification. On the basis of the

Spain and with the help of Dr. Antia Schwenke.

This project actually began during the Fall semester of with Dr. Antia Schwenke. In that class, I was to find in on the data and a synthesis of research on to what extent can

I

group, however, I did not decreasing the number of what would happen if these Hispanics that identified as whether research could be used as an indicator of worth

topic as it was a topic nobody has really researched and the following important literature was not available now. I distributed a survey and a questionnaire due to the time constraint and population size. I found it best to use secondary data and narrow my scope to a few specific areas of research.

My research showed that the results were not aligned with those of the race they self-identify as:

Dr. Campbell assisted me in writing a regression analysis of the data. The results showed that the relationship between the variables was not as strong as I had expected. The regression analysis showed that the relationship between the variables was not as strong as I had expected.

The results of the regression analysis showed that the relationship between the variables was not as strong as I had expected. The regression analysis showed that the relationship between the variables was not as strong as I had expected. The regression analysis showed that the relationship between the variables was not as strong as I had expected.

AMERICAN HISTORY

In the evening, we attended a dinner at the Lincoln Memorial. The dinner was a wonderful opportunity to meet and hear from many of the speakers who had participated in the day's events. It was a chance to discuss the day's events and to hear from the speakers on a more personal level. Many of the speakers highlighted the significance of the day's events and the importance of civic engagement. They also discussed the challenges facing our country and the need for us to work together to address these challenges. The dinner was a great way to end the day and to reflect on the day's events.

On the first day, we explored the Lincoln Memorial, the Vietnam War Memorial, and the Korean War Memorial. The Lincoln Memorial is a powerful symbol of American democracy and the struggle for civil rights. The Vietnam War Memorial is a poignant reminder of the sacrifices made by our soldiers and the impact of war on our society. The Korean War Memorial is a testament to the bravery and sacrifice of our military personnel.

Each of these memorials offers a unique perspective on American history and the values that have shaped our nation. They are places where we can reflect on the past and draw inspiration for the future. The Lincoln Memorial, in particular, is a place where we can find strength and courage in the face of adversity. It is a place where we can see the power of the American dream and the importance of standing up for our principles.

As I look back on this trip, I am incredibly grateful for the American generations that have come before us. They have fought for the freedoms and opportunities that we enjoy today. They have paved the way for a more just and equitable society. It is their legacy that we must honor and protect. We must continue to work for a better future for all Americans, and we must ensure that the values of freedom, justice, and equality remain the foundation of our nation.

From the Lincoln Memorial to the Vietnam War Memorial, each of these sites offers a powerful lesson in American history. They remind us of the sacrifices that have been made and the progress that has been achieved. They inspire us to continue the work of our forefathers and to strive for a better future for all. We must never forget the importance of civic engagement and the power of the American people to make a difference in our world.

Gallery: A man, extremely enlightening, was one of the speakers who participated in the day's events. He shared his insights on American history and the challenges facing our country. His words were both inspiring and thought-provoking. He reminded us of the importance of staying informed and engaged in the political process. His message was clear: we must work together to address the challenges of our time and to build a better future for all.

Another speaker, a woman, shared her story of how she became involved in politics. She spoke of the challenges she faced and the rewards she has found. Her story was a powerful reminder of the importance of civic engagement and the power of the individual to make a difference. She encouraged us to get involved and to make our voices heard. Her message was one of hope and optimism for the future.

Chief of the National Endowment for Democracy, a man, spoke of the importance of democracy and the challenges it faces. He spoke of the need for us to protect and promote democracy around the world. He reminded us of the power of the American people to make a difference in the world. His message was one of strength and resolve. He encouraged us to stand up for our principles and to work for a more just and equitable world.

Each of these speakers offered a unique perspective on American history and the challenges facing our country. They reminded us of the importance of civic engagement and the power of the individual to make a difference. They inspired us to continue the work of our forefathers and to strive for a better future for all. We must never forget the importance of staying informed and engaged in the political process. We must work together to address the challenges of our time and to build a better future for all.

regard to direct democracy and how people do not have the opportunity to make their own decisions. It is important to ensure that our government is accountable to the people and that we have a say in the decisions that affect our lives. We must continue to work for a more just and equitable society, and we must ensure that the values of freedom, justice, and equality remain the foundation of our nation.

